ORDER

Before the court is Defendants AirIQ, Inc. et al's Notice of Request for a Claim Construction Hearing [Doc. # 118]. The parties were to notify the court by March 12, 2010 if they believed a claim construction hearing was required in this case based on the new claims added during reexamination. Only Defendants requested a claim construction hearing, and Plaintiff LunarEye, Inc. does not believe a hearing to be necessary. Therefore, the court ORDERS as follows and sets the following deadlines for claim construction:

April 5, 2010	Opening claim construction brief by Defendants (P.R. 4-5(a)). This brief will be limited to twenty-five pages.
April 5, 2010	Submit technology synopsis (both hard copy and disk).
April 19, 2010	Responsive claim construction brief by Plaintiff (P.R. 4-5(b)). This brief will be limited to thirty pages.
April 26, 2010	Reply claim construction brief by Defendants (P.R. 4-5(c)). This brief will be limited to five pages.
May 3, 2010	Parties to file joint claim construction and chart (P.R. 4-5(d)). Parties shall work together to agree on as many claim terms as possible.

May 12, 2010 | | | Claim construction hearing at 10:00 a.m. in Beaumont, Texas.

The parties may assume that the court has familiarity with the claim construction standard of review, and need not devote a significant portion of their briefing to reciting the applicable law.

So ORDERED and SIGNED this 16 day of March, 2010.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Ron Clark", is written above a horizontal line.
